

International Journal of Students Education

Page 22-23

ISSN 2344-4890

Copyright © Author International Journal of Students Education

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License

HUMANS AS SOCIAL BEINGS IN THE COMMUNITY

Putri Rachma Mawadha¹, Alfina Yulianti²

^{1,2}Elementary School Teacher Education, Universitas Muhammadiyah Sumatera Utara

Email: ¹rachmamawadha10@gmail.com, ²alfinayulianti97@gmail.com

Abstract

Humans are social creatures and actually have a dependence on what is done in life, depending on how that person runs it. Humans as social beings are also closely related to establishing communication and relationships with their environment, both in the family and in the community, so that a person will find groups of people who are considered able to understand the conditions and needs they want so that they feel able to mingle with other people. surrounding. This research technique uses literature review, namely reading journals related to humans as social beings to produce writing that is in accordance with the title that will be explained. With the aim to know that humans as social beings have interactions with the surrounding community.

Keywords : Human, Environment, Public

Introduction

Humans are social creatures and actually have a dependence on what is done in life, depending on how that person runs it. Almost all have the same lifestyle in society, namely as a good citizen chip. By behaving in accordance with applicable norms, humans can be said to be good citizen chips. Then, because humans cannot live alone and need other people to survive, it is necessary to have interactions that are established, thus it can be said that humans are creatures that basically always want to associate and gather with other human beings.

Humans as social beings are also closely related to establishing communication and relationships with their environment, both in the family and in the community, so that a person will find groups of people who are considered able to understand the conditions and needs they want so that they make themselves feel confident and dare to mingle in the midst of society. amidst the surrounding community. Therefore, humans as social beings in society are able to bring themselves to be able to live side by side and be able to interact and establish good reciprocal relationships and as a form of interrelationship that requires each other between humans and other humans.

Research Methodology

This research is a descriptive-qualitative research with a focus on the study of natural objects that emphasize a meaning. The technique of collecting data in research is by means of literature review, namely reading journals related to humans as social beings to produce writing that is in accordance with the title that will be explained, then after collecting and tracing journals or other related sources, the next step is drawing conclusions. In this study the authors seek sources and explore understanding and then human interaction with the surrounding community as a form that humans need each other.

Result & Discussion

Human comes from the word manu (Sanskrit) or mens (Latin) which means thinking, reasoning, or homo (Latin) which means human. The term is related that humans have reason that leads them to be able to live their lives as well as possible. Humans are social beings who cannot stand alone without the support and interference of other people. It is through these relationships and interactions that later they will be able to develop their potential in one's life and then he will return to society and become a good human being to other humans.

In the 2nd Pancasila precept, namely "just and civilized humanity" which in this precept has the meaning that humans must be able to respect other human beings, both in terms of race, ethnicity, religion and others without having to compare or feel that the beliefs of other people is wrong. We must be able to have a high tolerance and social spirit without having to choose or see someone's background coming from another ethnicity or religion.

For example, when helping or helping others who are in trouble, in this case, of course, as good human beings, we are not allowed to choose whether that person has the same beliefs as us or not. Therefore, there is a connection between the 2nd Pancasila precepts and humans as social beings in society, that is, we as social beings who need other people in life should not discriminate between the people we interact with because in society we are only required to obey and comply with applicable laws or norms, so that good citizenship is achieved.

We as humans may choose or sort out what kind of human or what kind of community group we will interact with next, but that's in a different context, that is to say, choosing a good community group, obeying the rules, which then brings the human to something different. both for himself and for others, then later human beings will be realized as social beings in society who are able to interact with groups of people for the common good.

Conclusion

Based on the explanation that has been explained, it can be concluded that humans as social beings in society, indeed need other humans to be able to continue their lives. Then establishing good interactions and cooperation with community groups without having to differentiate or compare them either in terms of race, ethnicity or religion, we must be able to realize ourselves as good citizen chips that are not only good for themselves but also good for those around them.

References

- ABUTE, E.L.A. (2019). The Concept Of Social Awareness In Education. Glasser Education Journal, 3(2), 186. <https://doi.org/10.32529/glasser.v3i2.338>
- Heryadi, H., & Silvana, H. (2013). Intercultural Communication In Multicultural Societies. Journal of Communication Studies, 1(1), 95–108. <https://doi.org/10.24198/jkk.vol1n1.9>
- Iffah, F., & Yasni, YF (2022). Humans as Social Beings Meeting. Lathaif: Interpretation Literacy, Hadith and Philology, 1(1), 38–47.
- Listia, WN (2015). Children as social beings. An Anthology of the Golden Ages, 1(1), 14–23.
- Pawestri, E., & Zulfiati, HM (2020). ACCOMMODATE DIVERSITY OF STUDENTS IN LEARNING. Elementary Education, 6(3), 903–913.
- Shofiyatul, A. (2016). CITIZENSHIP EDUCATION IS ONE OF THE MANAGEMENT OF THE HUMAN DIMENSION AS INDIVIDUAL, SOCIAL, SOCIAL, AND RELIGIOUS BEINGS. Faculty of Teacher Training and Education Sciences, 18(1), 77–86.
- Subli, S., & Kamaliah, K. (2022). The Role of Islamic Religious Education in Forming Social Life in Society. Al-Aulia: Journal of Islamic Education and Sciences, 8(1), 32–41. <https://doi.org/10.46963/aulia.v8i1.537>
- Utama, L., Indasari, D., Puspasari, A., & Husin, F. (2022). AND HUMAN OBLIGATIONS AS SOCIAL BEINGS IN JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS. Community Service, 2(1), 164–169.
- Wiliandani, AM, Wiyono, BB, & Sobri, AY (2016). Implementation of Character Education in Learning in Elementary Schools. Humanities Education, 4(3), 132–142.
- Yunitasari, D. (2018). Peeling Human Nature as Educational Beings. Civic Education & Law Urnal, 13(1), 1–7.